KERSLEY MEWS, LONDON, SW11

With delightful views down the length of North Battersea's only Victorian Mews, this beautifully presented three double bedroom mews house enjoys arguably the best position of them all with its outlook looking directly along the entire mews. Situated as it is on the corner it is considerably larger than some of its neighbours. The property is extremely well presented, and retains much of its period feel but with a contemporary style of living throughout. Of particular note is the garage which forms part of the property with its automatic doors. This space could also be incorporated into house as further living space as others have done.

There is also direct parking outside to the property which is exclusive to the mews itself. Kersley Mews is "hidden away" just off Foxmore Street, minutes from Battersea Bridge Road and Albert Bridge Road and close to the wonderful open spaces and leisure facilities of Battersea Park. There are local shops and restaurants on Battersea Park Road together with 'bus services to Vauxhall and the City, and the routes on Battersea Bridge Road provide access across the River. THREE BEDROOMS
